GENERAL AGREEMENT OF INTER-INSTITUTIONAL COOPERATION between

THE UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN-STOUT
Menomonie, WI 54751

and

UNIVERSIDAD DE CHILE

Purpose

The primary purpose of this agreement is to formalize institutional commitment to explore means of cooperation between our two institutions of higher education. The agreement outlines a number of possible means of cooperation but does not preclude the development of other possibilities. In signing this agreement, both institutions acknowledge their interest in developing international linkages of mutual benefit.

Areas of Possible Future Collaboration

The following have been identified as possible areas of collaboration between our two institutions. The institutions agree to explore one or more of these possibilities over the next two years.

1. Identify one or more faculty who might participate in the Fulbright Foreign Scholars Programs.
2. Develop faculty exchanges, collaborative research and lecturing opportunities for faculty from each institution.
3. Develop student exchange programs that permit students to make progress toward their professional degrees while studying at the host university.
4. Offer students the opportunity to study English and Spanish as second languages at the host universities.
5. Develop contracts for educational, training and other services that could be offered on a mutually beneficial basis.

In exploring these possibilities, the institutions will exchange information on curriculum, pedagogy, academic requirements, housing, costs and other matters pertinent to developing collaborative programs.

Approval for Specific Collaborative Programs

If agreement is reached to establish specific cooperative programs between our two institutions, the specific terms and conditions of those programs will be spelled out in addenda to this agreement. These addenda will be subject to approval by both institutions before becoming part of this general agreement.

Review of General Agreement

This general agreement will be reviewed by each institution two years after the date of its signing to assess progress toward developing collaborative programs. At that time, a decision will be made on whether to renew or revise the agreement.
